Thought Messiah Coming.

The streets of Nassau and Kelly street section is in the Jewish district of the city. This is the last day of the Feast of the Passover, and many of the Polish Jews, the people of smoke and the fire falling on all sides, interpreted the situation as the coming of the Messiah. Men, women and children tore their hair and knelt in prayer to pray. Their shouts were terrifying. One woman, Mary Kirschnamsky, went violently insane.

Draymen reaped a harvest. A large number of the Jews, who had been driven to the district and offered for $5, $10 or more to remove goods to the city, were taken to the police station by the half-crazed Polish Jews, and they stowed as many of their goods as possible on the wagons, not even knowing even the destination.

From house to house, through street after street, the Jews looted the burning buildings on Chatham, Nassau.

"If the law of regulation now effectively operated in Richmond proving sale to minors and drunkards, with no other evils, I should, at the maximum limit of permits, dispensed only by responsible citizens, constantly improving the effect of liquor traffic, I should be in favor of it. As instantiates, I submit the course of wisdom for our people is to continue as at present; should conditions change, we can further amend the law. This course is one of prudence, force and results."

"Your municipal, commercial, civic and social bodies are constantly sounding the praise of Richmond, that she is a city of the future, that she is a happy, prosperous community, free from sensational agitations, standing together for the betterment of our spiritual and material condition. In this splendid condition should not we be disturbed by agitation tending to divide her people, resulting in retro-
